TRINITY COLLEGE RECEIVES GIFT OF $500,000 GALLERY

Fine Collection of Paintings and Sculpture for Local School.

BUILDING IS INCLUDED

Judge and Mrs. O'Connor, of Los Angeles, Donors of Rich Present.

Trinity College for Women this afternoon came formally into possession of a gallery of paintings, statuary, and etchings valued at $500,000.

The collection is the gift of Judge and Mrs. Miles P. O'Connor, of Los Angeles, Cal., and is housed in an impressive and handsome addition to the main college building, also given to the institution by them. The double donation is estimated at about $500,000. Both the venerable donors, the former long a prominent jurist in the West, are now in Washington and attended the exercises this afternoon which transferred the gallery to the authorities of the college.

Included in the collection are 425 works of art. Of this number ten are original works of sculpture, 115 are paintings in oil—chiefly copies of religious masterpieces in Rome, Venice, and Florence—and 290 are engravings or etchings in black and white. There are in addition, several mosaics, a group of photographs of Venice and Florence, retouched in color with marvellously fine effect, and a cabinet of small paintings on ivory and porcelain, chiefly of religious subjects. The copies in oil are known among art dealers as "original copies," a phrase which indicates that the copies were made directly from the originals; but their chief value lies in the fact that they have been painted with great skill and are probably as true to the originals as any other copies in existence.

Superlative Copies of Great Paintings. In this section of the new gallery are copies of the following works:

"The Discussion of the Holy Trinity," by Andrea Mantegna; "The Shipwreck," by Titian; the Madonna of Fra Lippo Lippi; "The Garden of Love," by Rubens; the "Beatrice Cenci" of Caracciolo; "Our Lady of Slumber," by Rafael; the "Saint Anthony of Padua," by Murillo; the "Magnificat" of Botticelli; "Christ in the House of Levi," by Paul Veronese; "The Martyrdom of Saint Barbara," by Domenico Ghirlandajo; "The Stuart Children," by Van Dyck; "Saint Cecilia," by Rafael; "Saint Catherine," by Rubens; "The Magdalen," by Rubens; "The Madonna of the Throne," by Perugino; the "Madonna and Child," by Michelangelo; "The Last Supper," by Leonardo da Vinci; "The Descent from the Cross," by Raphael; "The Transfiguration," by Raphael; and "The Concert," by Giorgione.

Of the originals the most notable are three scenes by Heinrich Heineken, three works by E. Fanfani, including a noteworthy study of Dante's "Divine Comedy," a fine landscape by Meimgrub, two pastorals by And. Marko, two landscapes by Bertha van Hiller, and a landscape by one of her pupils, Maria J. C. Becker, and paintings by Prof. Ferrari, Scifoni, Butz, Wanderwerf, Salmonson, Fossi, Ferant, and Mazzoni.

The collection of statuary includes two fine works by Randolph Rogers, "The Lost Pleiad," and "The Sleeping Ariadne," "Linnaeus as a Boy," and "Sir Walter Scott," by Brabant; "Innocence," by Albano, and "The Little Embroiderer," by Lapini.

Rare Engravings and Etchings.

Artists will find in the black and white room an interest not less than that aroused by the superlative copies near by. The three walls are divided between black and white copies of Raphael's impressions from plates by Gustave Dore and a miscellaneous collection in which two fine etchings by Claude Lorraine are conspicuous. Along the fourth wall is a fine photograph of the entire ceiling of the Sistine Chapel by Michaelangelo. This collection, as a whole, is worthy of comparison with any similar exhibit in the United States.

The galleries, framing, and hanging contribute interest to the collection. The upper floor of the new building covers an assembly hall known as the "O'Connor Lecture Hall." Most of the dedicatory space is occupied by the main gallery of copies in oil. The subordinate collections are in rooms along one side of this main gallery, except that the statuary is in an alcove at the east end. Many of the frames were in Florence and of them that inclosing the Ghirlandajo's "Descent from the Cross" work of art in blue and gold.

Address by Dr. Shahan.

The presentation exercises began this afternoon at 3 o'clock and consisted of an address by the Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, D. D., of the Catholic University, on behalf of the donors; a reply in acceptance by Sister Georgeanna, a sister superior of the college; a concert by the musical society of the school, and a reception to Judge and Mrs. O'Connor.

Thursday will bring the commencement to a close with the conferring of degrees by Bishop Gibbons on the following candidates: Bachelor of Arts—Anna Aloysius Coleman, New York; Margaret Louise Doolan, Salt Lake City; Blanche Manning Gavin, Massachusetts; Marian Alice Gray, St. Louis; Eleanor Patricia Griffin, New York City; Elizabeth Gertrude Lamb, Massachusetts; Agatha Anna Linnahan, New Haven; Margaret Mary McDevitt, Pennsylvania; Katharine Mary McEnelly, Massachusetts; Mary McGorrick, Des Moines; Florence Elizabeth McMahon, Massachusetts; Helen Loretto O'Mahoney, Massachusetts; Elsie Marie Parsons, Philadelphia; Marie Frances Rottermann, Ohio, and Florence Marie Stude, Ohio. Bachelor of Letters—Mary Eleanor Sheridan, Dubuque.

BATTLE OF BALLOTS IS RENEWED TODAY AT SPRINGFIELD

Factions Gather After Recess With Candidates All in Field, and, Excepting Yates, All on Hand—Deadlock Still On.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 31.—The fight for the nomination of governor to head the Republican ticket in Illinois opens again this afternoon.

Since Monday, the factions have been gathering ready to put up the same fight they did two weeks ago, when fifty-eight ballots were taken without result. The convention reassembles at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Among the first things done will be the roll call of the counties on the fifty-ninth ballot.

No Nomination Expected.

Nothing in the way of a nomination is expected today. The adherents of the several candidates seem to be as devoted to their favorites now as they were when the convention adjourned. A great many look for the same tangle and think another adjournment will be necessary.

One thing is certain. That is that a nomination will have to be made this week or a recess of two weeks taken again. The hall will be used for other conventions in that period.

All Present But Yates.

All candidates except Yates were on the ground this morning. Lowden came down from Chicago early Monday morning and in the afternoon a special train carrying his delegates and band of fifty pieces came down. Up to late in the night the band paraded the streets, visiting the different hotels, while the delegates shouted the name of Lowden and pasted Lowden posters to every convenient fence.

The Yates men are still of the opinion that he should be the one to whom the break should be made, and assure themselves that no one else will receive the plum. The Hamlin crowd are still loyal and the Deenen contingent are yelling for the Chicago prosecuting attorney.

President Declines Aid To Wisconsin Regulars

Effort of La Follette Faction to Involve Him in State Fight Fails—Call on Mr. Payne.

Once again the President has had occasion to give assurance that he will not interfere with State factional fights. This was when he was waited upon by five distinguished gentlemen from Wisconsin. They were W. D. Connor, chairman of the State committee; W. L. Houser, secretary of state; Irvine L. Housner, speaker of the assembly; C. C. Gutting, and H. P. Myrick, editor of the "Milwaukee Free Press."

Delegation of Regulars. They represent the La Follette, or "regular," faction, and their visit is said to have been due to the fact that Senator Spooner saw the President since the Wisconsin convention, and as he represents the "bolters," who include practically the entire Congressional delegation of the State, it was the desire of the La Follette people that their side of the controversy should also be presented to the President.

While declining to discuss the subject of their talk, it is understood that the President's attention was called to the fact that the family troubles of the Wisconsin Republicans might have a material bearing on the success of the national ticket. Under the laws of Wisconsin, the Federal electors must select what ticket they will run on when they have been named by two conventions. As the gentlemen named were selected by the La Follette crowd, and afterward by the bolters, the majority of them have elected to run under the La Follette banner.

Should the remainder so elect, and the La Follette ticket be thrown out, some complication would result. Should some electors choose the Stalwart ticket, the result might be a divided electoral delegation.

No Consolation Given.

The President, it is stated, was not drawn into an expression by the presentation of this situation, contenting himself with a general talk on the value of party harmony, and the assurance that he would not become involved in any State fight.

The delegation at a later hour called upon Postmaster General Payne to discuss political matters with him.

Not to be taken away by any power of Congress.

The decision of the court, he claimed, was an amendment of the Constitution by judicial construction, which was a most dangerous step. The fact that some of the people of the Philippines were not sufficiently educated to appreciate the full benefit of the Constitution was no reason why the Supreme Court of the United States should say that all of the inhabitants of those islands, including the United States citizens resident there, should be deprived of the right of a jury trial.

Exhaustion, Caused by the Heat, Is Followed by Heart Failure.

Samuel G. Mulloy, formerly a deputy marshal of the District of Columbia, was taken suddenly ill in a saloon at 306 Sixth Street northwest this morning, and died shortly after being admitted to the Emergency Hospital. Coroner Nevitt made an investigation and gave a certificate of death from heart failure.

Mr. Mulloy, appearing fatigued and exhausted from the heat, called at the saloon shortly after 10 o'clock. He ordered the bartender to give him a glass of scotch and water, and had scarcely finished drinking the beverage when he fell to the floor unconscious. An ambulance was summoned from the Emergency Hospital, whither he was removed for treatment. He died in a few minutes.

Mulloy was employed in the marshal's office during the Administration of Cleveland. In latter years he had been inspector of roads near Beltsville, Md., where he lived with his wife and three children.

His brother-in-law, F. A. Tschiffely, a wholesale druggist at 455 Pennsylvania Avenue northwest, was informed of his death and the body was later removed to the family residence.

ROBERT M. McLANE

DEAD MAYOR OF BALTIMORE.

The city's chief executive who, while in a spell of mental aberration, yesterday took his own life.

BRITISH VISITORS GREATLY PLEASED

Party Leaves En Route to the St. Louis Exposition.

VIEWED THE NATIONAL GAME

One Enthusiastic Englishman Watches Play and Shouts "a Boundary."

The English municipal commission concluded its visit to Washington today, and started for St. Louis to spend a week viewing the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

The party breakfasted leisurely at the New Willard, and left there shortly after 10 o'clock for the Pennsylvania station. Special cars were attached to the Pittsburgh express, giving the tourists every comfort in traveling. At Harrisburg a special diner was to be taken on.

The start was made at 10:50 o'clock, and the tourists are due to arrive at St. Louis tomorrow morning.

Delighted With Capital.

Lord Lyveden voiced the views of all the British travelers when he declared to a number of Washington friends who had come to the station that all had found Washington the finest city they had yet visited.

Individual views of this sort were expressed by nearly every member of the party. In consequence of the excellent arrangements made by Secretary Edward Lunn, of the commission, each traveler found all the business details of the trip attended to in advance, leaving every opportunity for individuals to devote themselves to having a good time. How well they availed themselves of this was shown by the variety of places visited by the tourists, each following his own bent.

Seeing the Sights.

Most of the members of the party were at Arlington yesterday, but those who did not go had a large number of things to tell their friends as the result of their individual trips.

Some of the party drove through Rock Creek Park, others went to Mt. St. Albans, and others to the Chevy Chase Club for tea. The great crowds of holiday excursionists prevented the carrying out of some of the other plans on the time schedule prepared.

The greatest disappointment of some of the visitors was that they had not seen as much of the Capitol as they had hoped.

"I'm mighty much disappointed not to have seen your Senate house," said Alderman Mulloy, whose strong resemblance to General Grant was commented upon when the visitors were in New York. "But I shall come again. This trip was only a beginning."

Ex-Lord Mayor's Guests.

The end of the Washington visit of the commission was marked by a number of social courtesies exchanged between members of the party and their American friends.

At dinner last evening Sir Edwin Newton, a former lord mayor of London, entertained, with Lady Newton, John H. Lile and J. D. Hunt, all of the visiting party, and the following Washington friends: Mrs. T. DeWitt Talmage, Mrs. Needham, wife of the president of Columbia University; Mrs. Burrows, wife of the Senator from Michigan, and Col. and Mrs. Robert I. Fleming.

"I was mighty much interested in seeing a good game of baseball in America," said John Barker, of Great Britain.

M'LANE TRAGEDY STUNS BALTIMORE

Timanus Takes Oath and Assumes Office of Mayor.

TO CARRY OUT PROGRAM

Will Go on With Building Plans of Predecessor—Silent on Other Policies.

BALTIMORE, May 31.—The business as well as the social and political life of this city has been badly stunned by the sudden death of Mayor Robert M. McLane. On all sides can be heard expressions of the deepest sympathy and regret over the untimely ending of the career of the city's youthful chief executive.

Worry over the troubles resulting from the recent big fire and family differences growing out of his marriage are believed by everyone to have caused mental aberration, which led to his act.

The tragedy occurred in the dressing room of the mayor's bedchamber, 29 West Preston Street, shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He died at 4:45 p. m.

Given Over to Republicans.

Mayor McLane was a Democrat. His death places at the head of municipal affairs in Baltimore an organization Republican, E. Clay Timanus.

Mr. Timanus is the president of the second branch of the city council, and was elected at the same time as Mr. McLane. He assumes his new position under a provision of the new charter which states that the next ranking officer to the mayor shall, upon death or resignation of the chief executive, take over the duties of that position and serve out the unexpired term, which has yet three years to run. Mayor McLane had been in office a year this month.

Under another provision of the charter the new mayor will be prevented from removing any of the Democratic officials now in office. They have served six months, without having been removed, and are thereby entitled to serve out the term of the mayor, which is four years.

Mayor Timanus Sworn In.

Mayor Timanus took the oath of office at 9:10 o'clock this morning. It was administered by Robert Ogil, clerk of the superior court.

The new mayor declines to discuss his policy, other than to say he will carry out the program of the dead mayor as to all city improvements.

All city boards met today and promptly adjourned.

Wife Asleep in Adjoining Room.

Mayor McLane ended his life by shooting himself in the head. At the time of the shooting Mrs. McLane, a bride of two weeks, was taking a nap in the front room on the same floor. The mayor was found lying on the floor with a bullet in his head.

Mrs. McLane gave the alarm, and all the physicians near by were summoned. Messages were hurried to the members of Mr. McLane's family, and the first to reach him was his father, James L. McLane.

The pistol, which was a five shooter, was lying under him. The bullet had penetrated the upper part of the right temple and had come out a little behind and just above the left ear.

No Hope of Life.

Mrs. McLane was in the room at the time and asked the doctor if her husband could live. He told her that there was no hope. Dr. Schertzer told her

FLAG OF JAPAN IS OVER DALNY

General Oku's Troops Enter City Yesterday. Railway Bridges and Grand Pier Destroyed—Railway Cars Captured.

BANDITS PILLAGE CITY
AS RUSSIANS EVACUATE

Telegraph Office, Railway Station, Warehouses, Barracks, and Docks Not Injured—Steam Launches Sunk.

The Japanese Legation received the following official dispatch this morning:

"Tokyo, May 31.—General Oku, commander of the army operating against Port Arthur, reports that our troops occupied Dalny on May 30.

"Over 100 warehouses and barracks, besides telegraph office and railway station, were found uninjured. Over 200 railway cars are still usable, but all small railway bridges in the neighborhood are destroyed.

"All dock piers, except the great pier, which was sunk, remain uninjured. Some steam launches are also sunk at the mouth of the dock."

DALNY PILLAGED BEFORE JAPS ARRIVE.

CHEEFOO, May 31.—Refugees from Dalny, mostly Chinese, state that the Japanese arrived there shortly after the evacuation of the place by the Russians.

When the Russians had evacuated Dalny bandits, they assert, attacked the place, burning and pillaging many buildings. The arrival of the Japanese afforded protection to the Chinese.

Japan's Troops Occupy Pass at Motien-Ling

CHEEFOO, May 31.—A Manchurian merchant here claims he has information that the Japanese have occupied Motien-Ling Pass in the mountains one hundred miles northwest of Feng-wang-cheng and directly east of Liao-Yang.

This is the only pass through the mountains on the road to Liao-Yang. It has long been expected that the Russians would take a firm stand here to prevent the further advance of the Japanese. The place is almost perfectly adapted to a defensive fight, being narrow and between high walls, making it possible for a comparatively small force to resist a much stronger one.

Japanese Gunboat Damaged.

Japanese gunboat No. 8, according to a report received here today, was damaged by shells from the Port Arthur forts yesterday.

The gunboat was reconnoitering near Shih-shan when the fire from the forts was directed at her. She was captured by the Japanese and three other were injured.

One gun was badly damaged.

MUKDEN, May 31.—A report reached here today that the Japanese had lost one gunboat and two torpedo boats in an attack on Port Arthur on Saturday.

The attack was made in an attempt to block the harbor of Port Arthur. The searchlights on shore discovered the approach of the Japanese.

After the Japanese boats had been lost the merchantmen which were intended to block the harbor entrance, withdrew.
